For the church, My church saith the Spirit of Grace has yet to see what they will see, yet to know what they will know. For truly the pages of My word which are much more than black and white and just memory verses, they will become the living legends inside of your spirit saith the Spirit of Grace. For you will enact those things that you have seen others do in the word and you will say is this me? Is this really me doing these things? Oh yes, saith the Spirit of Grace for I have empowered you and will continue to bring you along so that the quest that I have asked you to come and perform you will not only perform but before you perform you will see yourself as in having all of everything that they had and your yourself going forward in My spirit. Glory to God!

Do not fear little ones. For I have given you a spirit of no fear saith the Spirit of the Lord. And know this, no matter what he would send and no matter what you would encounter in the days ahead that what you have already been empowered with is more, much more and beyond your comprehension more, than enough to sustain you and to walk on in absolute authority and victory saith the Spirit of the Lord. Hallelujah!

These things that you are experiencing and feeling now are the quakings of those things which are to come saith the Spirit of Grace. For a long time, even since the days of the apostles I have desired to come back after that which I left yet without spot and without blemish. There are those on this planet who are finding that way and breaking free from those things which have been set before them. Know that these things which are cultivated in the spirit will bring forth a great harvest saith the Spirit of Grace. For many who came before you prayed, hoping to see these days and some come and some went but the prayers offered up by the saints of old who lived in seasons and days prior to this prayed for the outpouring and this is the beginning of these things that you yourselves have called into existence. For know that it will not be another generation for which you are sowing for but know these things will culminate and come to rest in the generation that you now stand in. That great outpouring that will usher in My presence is upon you saith the Spirit of Grace.
